

The good birth.

Ipswich Birth Class Educator

We are hiring! We on the hunt for a seriously passionate and engaging Midwife Educator to run our birth classes in Ipswich.

We're on a mission to deliver honest, inclusive, and evidence-based antenatal education that builds confidence, reduces fear, and helps parents make informed decisions.

This role is perfect for a midwife who loves teaching, connecting with parents, and celebrating birth. Who believes deeply in women's innate ability to birth, and wants to help parents understand their options in the maternity system.

Our classes cover the physiology of birth, practical pain coping strategies, being a great partner, mindset & nervous system work, decision-making skills, newborn behaviour, and life in the early postnatal period. All in a judgement-free, genuinely supportive, and fun environment.

We're looking for someone who:

- Is a registered midwife with AHPRA registration, actively practising (endorsement highly regarded but not essential)
- Can make the day fun and creatively engage parents for a full day of learning
- Presents evidence-based education, not hospital policy
- Helps parents think critically, make informed decisions, and understand their options in the maternity system
- Can answer questions thoughtfully and points parents to reliable sources of information
- Stays up to date with current research and proactively expands their midwifery knowledge
- Uses inclusive language to ensure all families feel welcome and represented
- Communicates in a warm, inclusive, and non-judgemental way
- Is comfortable with a presence on social media
- Has flexibility to very occasionally work other locations due to sickness in the team
- Additional qualifications are a bonus, including Endorsement, Possums NDC, Spinning Babies, OMP, bodywork/internal pelvic release, CalmBirth, Hypnobirthing, or other relevant birth/postpartum education

What We Offer

- Competitive contractor pay (ABN required)
- Group classes typically 1–2 per month
- Additional opportunities for private classes
- All curriculum, slides, and teaching resources provided
- A fun, positive, and supportive team
- If endorsed, opportunities to work within other aspects of The Good Birth, including antenatal and postnatal care if desired
